

or challenged you? How does this approach to handling money match up with advice you get from financial publications, websites or advisers? In what ways does it differ?

- ⇒ Evaluate your recent spending. How closely do your habits align with Wesley's advice? Make a three-column chart: Gain, Save, Give. In each column, estimate the amounts you have gained, saved, and given in the past year. How do you believe your spending habits, as they might be reflected in this new year's chart, might change if you prayed daily about the money you spent?

Prayer: God, I want to be a sensible steward of all you have provided. Protect me from an attitude marked by greed. May I grow toward faithful generosity, spending whatever money you entrust to me in a way that brings glory to you. Amen.

Do I give time for the Bible to speak to me every day?

SATURDAY – 01.12.19 • Read Hebrews 4:11-13

Wesley didn't ask this question to create more for Christians to do. He wanted us to look at our efforts to daily engage the Bible as a way for God to speak to us, to shape us into more deeply committed Christians. Bible reading is not a task to be completed. It is a habitual practice to shape us and mold us into who God invites us to be. Learning to listen to God through the Bible forms a life foundation that helps us become more aware of other ways, such as music, prayer or the beauty of creation, in which God also desires to speak to us.

- ⇒ Do you struggle with finding (or taking) the time to read the Bible each day? As with any other good habit, start small—even five minutes a day, and let the time increase as the discipline strengthens your spiritual life. Is your challenge more with understanding and interpreting what you read? Devotionals like this can help guide your understanding—but you still need to reflect and pray, taking in what you understand from each Bible passage. You can find more help in understanding in a quality study Bible or many other fine options. If you know someone who has developed the discipline of daily Bible reading, ask them about their experiences and routine, and what helps them hear God speaking through the Bible.

Prayer: God, stir in me a passion to read the Bible daily, and meditate on what I read. Give me the ability to understand, so that I can put your teachings into practice. Help the words of the Bible to not be just words on a page, but passageways of mercy into my heart. Amen.

Family Activity: During this time of growing in authentic faith, encourage your family to create a “God Sightings” jar. Decorate some type of small, simple container such as a basket, jar or bucket. Place a stack of index cards or strips of paper next to the container along with pens, colored pencils or crayons. Every day, from now until the end of our 21 Day Challenge (or the end of the month), invite each family member to grow in faith by writing or drawing a picture of a “God Sighting” – a time when they saw someone acting like Jesus, when they witnessed God in creation, when they experienced the love of God or felt the Holy Spirit's presence with them. If it is difficult to think of something one day, consider sharing something you can thank God for specific to that day. You can do this together at the same time or individually throughout the day. If you wish, your family can share these aloud each night at the dinner table, or you can save them and read them all at once at the end. Either way, be on the look out for “God Sightings” everyday!

Material in this devotional is mainly drawn, or slightly adapted, from The Wesley Challenge: 21 Days to a More Authentic Faith, by Rev. Chris Folmsbee, and were first used at The Church of the Resurrection, where he is an Associate Pastor.

Week 1 Devotional

Join St. John's United Methodist Church for The Wesley Challenge, built around 21 questions that John Wesley, the founder of Methodism, encouraged the first Methodists to ask one another. Through weekly sermons, small groups, and daily devotional readings, we will explore how we can develop the spiritual habits, practices and actions that can lead to a thriving Christian life.

Wesley's questions are intended to guide your reflection at the conclusion of your day. Additionally, there is a Family Activity on the back of this devotional guide.

Is Jesus real to me?

SUNDAY – 01.06.19 • Read John 3:3-17

John Wesley's question, “Is Jesus real to me?” may be the most important of all the 21 questions. It gets at the point of our Christian pursuit of holiness and witness. Wesley wanted Christians to make sure that we are not simply following a religion, but experiencing a relationship with Jesus. When Jesus is real to us, that reality shows itself to us and others through its impact on our words, actions, disciplines and practices.

- ⇒ Discipleship, the spiritual growth process of becoming a deeply committed Christian, isn't about outward piety. Rather, discipleship in the way of Jesus is about experiencing a person. When has Jesus seemed the most real to you in your life? The least real? What were those circumstances?
- ⇒ Jesus becomes more real to us through the practices of discipleship each day. Scripture reading, study, prayer, mission work, fasting, moments of solitude, submission to God's will for our life and joining authentic community all change the lens through which we view the world.
- ⇒ How can you make Jesus more real to you now? What discipleship practices can you put into your life to become a more deeply committed Christian?

Prayer: Lord Jesus, please give me a strong inner nudge (or an outward one, if I need it) to move me in the direction of making you and my commitment to you more real. Amen.

Don't forget to start the daily Family Activity on the back.

Am I enjoying prayer?

MONDAY – 01.07.19 • Read Luke 11:1-4

To enjoy prayer is to simply have a good prayer experience. Be it occasionally, daily or hourly, prayer is meant to be a positive and enriching worship experience. To pray, and enjoy it, is to regularly engage in the practice of prayer, and as a result find a deeper understanding of God, self, others and the world. We pray to lean into God's goodness and strength. When we pray well, we learn to enjoy it.

- ⇒ Were you taught how to pray as a child? If so, who taught you, and what were you instructed to do? Think about a time when you prayed in earnest. What were the circumstances surrounding that time of prayer? What did you feel when the prayer was completed?
- ⇒ Commit to establishing a prayer routine. Pick a quiet place in your home or office. Pray at the same time each day. Start simply, dedicating just a few minutes at first. Pray in a way that works for you. If you enjoy writing, you may want to write out your prayers. You may want to pray out loud. You can pray as you walk or exercise. Consider downloading a prayer app or sign up for a daily devotional email. Find the ways that lead you to richer experiences.

Prayer: Answer me when I call to you, my righteous God. Give me relief from my distress; have mercy on me and hear my prayer. (Psalm 4:1)

Do I insist upon doing something about which my conscience is uneasy?

TUESDAY – 01.08.19 • Read Philippians 4:8-9

The feelings we get when we insist on doing something we shouldn't—gossiping, lusting, lying, stealing, cheating, etc.—usually signal the goodness in us battling the human desire to usurp God's authority and be in charge of our own life. (Of course, our upbringing and social norms can shape our conscience. For example, a child raised in an organized crime family might have an uneasy conscience if he told the police about an illegal act he had seen. That's why Bible reading and prayer are so important.) A rightly trained uneasy conscience is a good thing. It reminds us that we are called to live into the goodness in which God created us.

- ⇒ Do you have areas of your life that are causing you an uneasy conscience? What are these weaknesses? Dig deeply—what is driving these temptations in your life? What steps can you put into place to combat the temptations you are facing?
- ⇒ Every time you find yourself leaning into a temptation, ask yourself these questions: "What are the consequences of giving into this weakness? Who may be hurt by this? Will the satisfaction of this moment be worth the consequences I may face?" Force yourself to answer the questions before you act.

Prayer: God, you alone know the true condition of my heart. I may be able to trick others with my words and actions, but you know the truth and are not fooled. Lead me to do and say only what is pleasing in your sight. Amen.

Did the Bible live in me today?

WEDNESDAY – 01.09.19 • Read John 15:1-8

The Bible is a love story—the story of a loving, creative God who is good. It is a collection of wonderfully engaging stories, written in a variety of genres such as poetry, prophecy and parables, meant not just to amuse or entertain, but also to shape our very life. Engaging the Bible is about intimacy more than literacy. Reading the Bible for knowledge of God is one thing. Allowing the Bible to read you for transformation is altogether different.

- ⇒ Wesley didn't ask, "Did I read my Bible today?" but "Did it live in me?" Is the Bible actively shaping your heart, your inner self? To allow the Bible to live in us we must be humble people, taking a posture of listening, learning, action and service. How do you let the Bible live in you each day?
- ⇒ The Bible is both divine and human. The Bible reveals the human struggle, discloses all that is wrong with humanity—violence, lust, murder, injustice, paganism—and at the same time discloses God's enduring love that overcomes human deficiencies and provides new life. Has your view of the Bible changed throughout your life? Do you value the Bible differently, or relate to it differently, than you did when you were younger?

Prayer: God, prepare my ears to hear your voice in the Bible. Open my heart and mind to the truths held in its pages. Holy Spirit, guide me into all truth and expand my understanding of the person and work of Jesus in a real and living way. Amen.

Did I disobey God in anything?

THURSDAY – 01.10.19 • Read Deuteronomy 5:32-33, Acts 5:27-32

When we choose to obey God, we honor God's love for us and live as God desired. When we disobey God by choosing to live our own ways, we live into our freedom, but also make the possibility of sin a reality. How do we move beyond a love for self and toward a whole-hearted love for God? When we don't do what God intends we must choose to confess our actions (or lack of actions) and ask for forgiveness. Confession taps into God's forgiveness, and forgiveness gives us a fresh start. God's love is always greater than your biggest blunder.

- ⇒ In what areas of my life am I choosing my own desires over God's desires? Where can I find help in overcoming my shortcomings? In what ways do you think Jesus models for us the way God intended for humans to live?
- ⇒ How can I worship God with the freedom God has granted me, rather than going my own way in rebellion against God? Here's one idea: memorize the verse, "To you, Lord, belong greatness and power, honor, splendor, and majesty, because everything in heaven and on earth belongs to you. Yours, Lord, is the kingship, and you are honored as head of all" (1 Chronicles 29:11). When you sense a struggle within you to obey God's authority, repeat it to yourself.

Prayer: God, you gladly and graciously forgive all who repent and turn toward you. Thanks for your promise of enduring and redeeming grace! May I strive to be as Christ is, so that I might reveal my love for you to the world around me. Amen.

Do I pray about the money I spend?

FRIDAY – 01.11.19 • Read Luke 12:13-15

John Wesley famously said, "Gain all you can, save all you can, and give all you can." That was why he included the question, "Do I pray about the money I spend?" To pray about the money we spend means that we go to God realizing that we do not possess any money of our own. Rather, we are simply holding God's money for the purposes of God's work in the world.

- ⇒ What inner reactions did you have to Wesley's statement, "Gain all you can, save all you can, give all you can"? Which dimensions of Wesley's guideline most surprised
